Ol' 100 With F M L

Crickets, motorcycles, TV, snakes, music — these are some of the subjects passing under Ol' 100's surveillance during the past year.

Of course that was when the weekly punfest was called Column 99. But as you recall when we started a column, we promised to change the number of the column each time The Herald was a year older.

This unclever idea at least relieves the reader from staring at the same old title year in, year out. And it just might lure some unsuspecting critic of Column 99 to read Ol' 100 for a few weeks until he discovers it is the same line of chatter by another name.

100-100-100

A columnist is oft times accused of saying nothing though writing a lot of words. It has occured to me that some words about nothing surely would prove the point; so I will continue, saying nothing.

Yet, nothing is more than we think. To a teen'ager it's something that justifies driving the family car 'round and 'round town. To the man of the house, it is a reason to take a nap when his wife may have something planned for him to do: work!

To the farmer it means the crops aren't coming up exactly right needing either rain or sunshine. To the businessman, it's a time of concern about customers.

And to us all it means we'll go out and look for something to do.

You might say that nothing is something that actually is, but ain't. It's the time between what's just happened and what is about to happen, though we don't know what it will be.

It's a scourge and a drive. And it's a word that precipitates doing something .... to escape nothing.

1.46-Inch Rain Boosts Soil Moisture In Milam

Heavy Winds Sweep County; No Damage List

An inch and one-half weekend rain added to already ideal growing conditions for county crops.

Rainfall totaling 1.46 inches fell in the Cameron viciniyt Sunday afternoon and early Monday.

Heavy gusts of wind blew in Cameron, but no damage was noted in the city.

About 10 tornadoes stirred in areas surrounding Milam County. No damage was reported in the county.

Surface and subsoil moisure was plentiful throughout the county. Five inches of rainfall in April boosted the watertable to good growing conditions.

County agent J. D. Moore said that about 85 per cent of the county cotton crop, expected to be largest in the past four years, had been planted. Weekend rains slowed planting of the remainder in lowlands which were wet from previous showers.

Maize growth and planting continued as the chinch bugs started invading county maize and cornfields.

Moore also noted late growth for Milam County produce, this year one of the shortest crops in county history.

Livestock conditions were strong Moore noted.

First harvest of the spring will be oats which will be cut for hay.

Alcoa Reopening Pair Of Potlines For Tonnage

PITTSBURGH—Aluminum Company of America announced Monday it was stepping up its production of primary metal by 40,000 tons a year through the reactivation of two idle potlines.

One potline will be re-started at the Point Comfort, Texas, smelting plant. The company will also restart a line at its Vancouver, Washington, operations.

Each of the re-started lines has a capacity of approximately 20,000 tons of primary aluminum annually. They were among the facilities made idle in 1957 and early 1958 when smelting operations were cut back to bring metal inventories into balance with a sharply reduced fabricating rate at plants of Alcoa and its customers.

John D. Harper, manager of Alcoa's Smelting Division, credited steadily improving demand for the light metal with the increase in the company's operating rate to approximately 82 per cent of its installed capacity of 798,250 tons.

The start-up of idle Alcoa smelting equipment marks the continuation of a trend which began late in 1958, and which has progressed as demand for aluminum has evidenced gradual improvement. Alcoa restarted the first of its idle Texas smelting facilities at Point Comfort in October of 1958. A line was re-started at Rockdale Works in March.

St. Edward's Plans: Open House Sun.

St. Edward's Hospital, 908 N. Crockett, will hold open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday citing National Hospital Week.

Officials of the Sisters of Charity of Incarnate Word, who operate the hospital, have extended an invitation to the public to visit the Cameron institution Sunday afternoon.

St. Edward's Hospital will receive a citation from the American Hospital Association for active membership for the past 25 years. The presentation will be made during the convention of the Texas Hospital Association in Houston this week.

Hospital officials noted that many improvements and equipment additions have been made in recent years at St. Edward's in keeping with the rapid progress of medical science.

Small hospitals are becoming better able to offer services that were limited to larger medical centers in past years, the National Hospital Week statement said.

Hospital authorities invited public attention to local hospital facilities which are open 24 hours a day to meet "the most unpredictable needs of humanity."

St. Edward's is currently working on approval by the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals. The Cameron hospital is approved by the Texas Hsopital Association, the American Hospital Association and the Catholic Hospital Association.

Sisters of the Charity of Incarnate Word have operated the hospital since its founder Dr. Edward Rischar, retired in 1946.

Wives of the staff members will act as hostesses during the open house Sunday: They are: Mrs. T. E. Crump, Mrs. C. G. Swift, Mrs. E. O. Smith, Mrs. T. C. Green and Mrs. S. H. Richardson.

School Cuts Role In Summer Play

The Cameron school board Thursday voted to drop school participation in the summer recreation program and set the school calendar for 1959-60.

Board members issued a statement saying: "In view of the fact that the football field and coaches will not be available this summer, the school has decided to curtail the summer recreation program this year. School equipment, facilities and baseball field will be available for community use outside the school system."

Workmen are grading and replanting Yoe Field this summer for a new bed of grass for the football year. Coaches Murphy Webster and Jim Speer will be working out of town during the summer officials noted.

New Calendar

The new school calendar includes an opening day of Tuesday, September 1, for the first day of school for the 1959-60 term.

Supt. Wiley Loughmiller listed the following holidays schedule: Labor Day, September 7; Thanksgiving, November 26-27; Christmas December 21-January 1; Easter, April 15-18, 1960; Yoe Day, May 12; and closing of school, May 24, 1960.

In an earlier meeting, the board rehired all teachers in Yoe High School, Ada Henderson, Ben Milam and O. J. Thomas schools except two.

Loughmiller said that Bill Michalka, mathematics instructors and C-team coach, and Roger Gwartney have resigned to take posts in other systems. Michalka is going to Devine as an assistant coach and teacher.

Johns To Return

Fred Johns, YHS science teacher on a scholarship leave of absence at Oklahoma State University, will return to teach science and mathematics, Loughmiller said.

Board members heard a request from a delegation of Ad Hall residents who asked that the Ad Hall school building, vacated by annexation last year, be left for a community center.

The board voted to hold six bids already received on the building for 30 days while Ad Hall residents decide whether or not they want to pay insurance and maintain the structure.

Also called for were bids from both Cameron banks for the school depository bienium in 1959-60.

And a $200 bid from Mike's Termite Control for treatment of termites at Ada Henderson School was approved. Permission was also granted for use of school buses to transport Boy Scouts to Fort Hood Saturday.

A&M To Present 50th Cotton Course June 8 to July 17

COLLEGE STATION-Each Summer for the past 50 years a cotton school has been held at Texas A &M College. The 1959 school will again be conducted by the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology during the six weeks between June 8 and July 17.

Professor J. M. Ward says the purpose of the school is to provide training for persons who expect to enter the cotton trade; to growers who desire to learn how to market their cotton more profitably and to buyers who wish to review grade and staple standards or become more familiar with the elements of quality in cotton.

Instruction will be given on cotton grading, stapling, determination of cotton properties and cotton trade procedures. Most of the time, points out Ward, will be devoted to actual practice work and discussions. A few lectures by visiting specialists will cover various phases of production, marketing and processing of cotton.

Ward says that an announcement booklet is now available on the school and that copies may be obtained by writing to him, J. M. Ward, Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department, A&M College, College Station, Texas.

TEXAS CHAMPIONS OF FREEDOM

"BIGFOOT" WALLACE

Friend and Defender of the Young Republic

Loyalty to his clan brought William Alexander Anderson (Bigfoot) Wallace to Texas, and his loyalty to Texas enriched the history of his chosen country. Born in Lexington, Virginia, in 1817, Wallace set out for the Southwest in 1836, to avenge the massacre of a brother and a cousin at Goliad. Later he told his friend and biographer, "Texas John" Duval, that he believed the account had been squared.

Wallace was a magnificent physical specimen..6 feet 2 inches tall in his moccasins, 240 pounds of bone, muscle, courage and humor..a mellow and convivial soul except when it was time to fight Indians, Mexicans or outlaws. He loved to sit in the shade and tell about such sights as the last buffalo run down Austin's Congress Avenue. But Texas history records him as a fearless soldier, scout, hunter, Ranger throughout the years of the Republic and those of the Civil War and Reconstruction. For many years he lived as he liked, and re-lived in tall tales the old days of free ways and free land..Bigfoot Wallace died January 7, 1899.

Today Texans still demand and get their right to choose the way they want to live. In this vigorous and freedom-minded homeland.."Beer Belongs" and this is why the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly, in conjunction with brewers, wholesalers and retailers, to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interest of Texans, the Foundation stresses close cooperation with the Armed Forces, law enforcement and governing officials in its continuing Self-Regulation program.

Trotlining Requires Skill

By Vera Sanford

Trotlining is an old-time way of catching fish. And it's still one of the best, and most productive means of taking fish.

But trotlining now, as always, requires skill and patience. The fisherman can't expect to be successful if he merely stretches a line in the water, then goes away and forgets about it for a long, long time. So let's explore some of the secrets about trotlining.

A trotline is simply about a hundred feet of strong cord with drop hooks suspended at intervals of several feet. Usually, one end of the line is tied to a tree or a rock on the shore, and the other to an anchor in the water. Different conditions, however, often dictate other ways of setting out the line.

One way is to attach an end of the line to a dock piling, under water, then stretch the other end out to its extremity, using an anchor at each end to keep the line taut and the hooks just above the bottom. With this method, the line is kept concealed, entanglement with boats is avoided, and two-legged predators are frustrated.

When it is desired to set the line in deep water, some distance from shore, a float is used for each 25 feet of line.

In a slow,flowing stream, some fishermen use a float at one end only. Thus the level of the various hooks extends from near the surface, at the float end, to near the bottom at the other end. In this way, you make an offering of bait to the fish no matter at what level he may be swimming.

Another method is to fix a float at each end of the line, inside of the two anchors. Then let the hooks dangle down along the line, not stretched tight, between the floats. This method presents the baited hooks at various levels.

In a river or lake bed, many fishermen drive stakes at opposite ends of a fairly taut lnie, then tie on an anchor in the middle of the line. This drops the center of the line to the bottom. The hooks then vary upward in depth from the anchor to the stakes, in two directions. If no anchor is attached to the center of the line, and it is stretched tight, the baited hooks will ride just under the surface.

There are other variations of the trotline set. Many variations will occur to the fisherman as he surveys the water where he plans to operate.

Best time to set out a trotline is at dusk. This because a catfish, is notoriously a night feeder. As most other fish feed in the daytime, the night fisherman avoids stealing of bait by the other finny ones.

Of course, catfish, do sometimes feed during the daylight hours, especially the channel cat.

As indicated above, one of the main questions about setting a trotline is whether you want it deep or shallow. Your decision on this part will depend on what kind of catfish you're going after. And what kind are most numerous in the body tf water where you are fishing.

Yellow and blue cats feed on the bottom. In fact, so do most varieties, except the channel cat. The latter usually will be found close to the top.

Trotline fishing varies a great deal with each locality and each body of water. The fisherman will do well to learn the feeding habits of the fish he seeks. Channel cat will come out of the deep water to feed along the banks on insects that fall off the trees and bushes. Therefore, a line stretched parallel with the bank in two or three feet of water is in a goody position to catch some fish.

Another good place to set your line is at the mouth of the creek as it empties into the lake, or a creek into a river. The running water usually brings different sorts of food into the deeper, quieter, lake water. Here it is best to set the trotline across the running water, just upstream from the ripples.

If there are large patches of cattails, or small trees and brush, growing in the water where the blackbirds and other birds roost, a good set can be made by circling the patch. This situation usually occurs in the fall when the birds are migrating. Catfish of all kinds will be caught near such a roost.

One caution—there are about as many laws on catfishing as there are lakes, rivers and counties. Always check with your local game warden before going out. There's another good reason for seeing this official. He wants you to catch fish and likely will give you some good tips on where to go and how to set your line.

Length of line usually is governed by local regulations. Just remember that two short lines are better than one long line. The minute you start running your line, the hooked fish on it will start fighting to get off. The longer it takes you to reach him, the more chance he has of tearing himself loose.

Dn't stop to bait empty hooks until you have finished running the line. Bait them coming back.

Trotlines should be checked ev ery three hours at night to refove the captured fish and to rebait the hooks.

If you spend several nights on the river or lake, it is wise to remove the trotline after one or two nights, because the rough fish and predators will have discovered it and will hang around to reduce your catch.

You want to use hooks in a size not larger than 4-0. That one will hold almost any big fish you will get, but it is not so large that most catfish can't get it in their mouths. Some trotliners use 2-0 or 3-0 hooks. I'ts a matter of choice.

Yoemen Finish 6-4 Baseball Year

The Cameron Yoemen completed their baseball season this past week with a 6 and 4 won-lost season record and 3 and 3 in district.

Catcher Ray Tepera led the Yoe staff throughout the season and ended up with a fat .382 batting average. Tepera's 13 hits were tops for the team in the course of the season.

He went to the plate 34 times in the cleanup position and scored 8 runs, second best on the squad. As a receiver he was the sparkplug of the team and his thrwoing arm was highly respected by enemy baserunners.

Freshman Ernest Bayer finished the season with a .367 average going 11 for 30 and scoring 5 times, he was the teams number 2 hurler.

Rodney Folschinsky, number one starter collected 9 hits and scored 7 runs for 29 trips to the plate. He had a .310 average to show.

Steve Malone was another freshman to break into the starting lineup. He led the team in runs scored with 9, had 9 hits with a .272 average for 33 at bats.

Griffin Barrett was the regular leftfielder as he was last year. Barrett finished the year with a .263 average with 5 hits and 7 runs to show for 19 times at bat.

Triney Alverez, despite a slow start filled in the right ffeld slot and showed a .243 batting average. He had 8 hits for 21 times at bat and scored 4 times.

Pat Dillon was probably the biggest and most pleasing surprise of the team for Coach Jim Speer. Dillon finished at .241, scored 3 times and handled 2nd base like an old pro, though only a sophomore.

Bobby Griswold, another sophomore who lettered last year, came through at shortstop and along with Dillon at second set up a top double play combination. Griswold batted .207 and had 6 hits for 29 times at bat, scoring 7 times.

Carroll Fikes, pitcher and third baseman finished off at .214 going 3 for 14 and scoring once. David Barkemeyer reserve first sacker and hurler was 2 for 4. Herb Thweatt, Archie Mraz and Chris Gay also saw action and provided a strong bench and second team for the club.

Rogers Fells Yoemen, 9-2

The Cameron Yoemen wound up their baseball season last Friday by falling to Rogers here 9-2.

The last game of the season was played with pitcher Rodney Folschinsky. Shortstop Bobby Griswold saw limited action due to injuries.

Henderson on the mound for the Eagles held the Yoemen to six hits while fanning four. Ernest Bayer took the loss for the Yoemen, he allowed 15 hits and struck out three while going the distance.

There was one double play during the contest pulled off by Cameron's Pat Dillon who caught a hot line drive and fired to first in time to pick the runner off.

Rogers had three in the first, two in the third, three in the fifth, and one in the seventh. Cameron scored their only two in the sixth.

Triney Alverez was 3 for 3 for Cameron and Bartek was three for four for Rogers.

Coffield Purchases T&NO Rails, Ties For $300,000

H. H. Coffield, Rockdale, has purchased 50 miles of abandoned TN&O railroad tracks between Giddings and Cameron.

A purchase price of $300,000 for the rails, ties, bridges and intermediate sidings was reported by C. H. Coffield, son of the Rockdale oilman-construction executive.

The rails will be exported to Mexico where they will be rerolled for concrete reinforcing rods, C. H. Coffield told the press.

The railroad ties will be converted into fence posts for resale in Texas. Coffield said work will begin on removing the rail equipment within three weeks.

The TN&O Railroad received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, in January to abandon the line due to reported yearly operating lisses of $0,000.

The Game Of 52...

Interest in Cameron's clean-up, paint-up drive this week is high and city workmen are hauling away the accumulation by the truckload.

When a final accounting is made, the annual Chamber drive, boosted by city co-operation and the hard work of Cameron's residents, should tally an excellent score.

The incentive is strong this week, but what about next week and the next and the next?

Will the clean-up idea be lost in an accumulation of materials that take the place of stuff we destroy now?

An inherent problem in community life is keeping up community premises. It is an unattractive, day-in, day-out task that must be plied the year-round for a really sparkling town.

Yet the continuing result is a standard that is easy to maintain because there is less effort involved in continuous maintenance.

Cameron's Clean-up, Paint-up Week is an excellent yearly project that gives us the spark for an annual spring housecleaning. It should motivate us, however, for a 52-week mindfulness as well as a one-week cleanup drive.

The City of Cameron is showing willingness to join the fight against growing weeds, untidy streets and trash clearance by providing special service this week to haul away the accumulations of materials piled up by working citizens.

Cameron's Chamber of Commerce has sparked the drive with information and liason work between city and citizens.

And Cameron residents are pitching in for the finest clean-up drive in history, mindful, we hope, that it is a game of 52.

An Outstanding Record...

Cameron's Yoe High School band scored a double first in regional competition last week . . . for the 22nd consecutive year.

Comments of judges show the outstanding status that director Francis Cox and his aggregation have gained in state band circles through the years. High in their praise were director of the Southern Methodist University Mustang band, Judge Irving Dreibrodt, and Pasadena High School band director, Judge Gene Stuchbery.

The YHS band, under Cox's direction, won first both in concert playing and sightreading. It is an amazing record for Cox and the Yoe High musicians and one of which Cameron can be proud.

The Little River Philosopher

Finds He'd Have Little Interest For Living In A Russian Home

Dear editor:

Every time the Russians criticize us, it's not necessary to answer them, but I was especially interested in a criticism Premier Khrushchev made the other day about American houses, which he is an authority on since he has never been in one.

According to him, American houses look all right, but they're not made to last over 20 or 30 years. "Such a method wouldn't suit us in Russia," he said. "We will build in the Russian manner, so that the houses may be used not only by us and our children, but also by our grandchildren and great-grandchildren."

Well, maybe so, but things don't always work out like the Russians claim. You don't notice Stalin's children living in the house Stalin used, do you? Khrushchev has a pretty good house at the moment, but I wouldn't bet on any of his children taking over when he's gone.

Also, I don't know how a Russian can leave his house to his children when he can't own it in the first place. As I understand the Russian position, if she built any houses, she'd build durable ones, but in the meantime the people can have one room per family in a state-owned apartment house.

And when it comes to building homes that last only 20 to 30 years, military power around, the average Russian house may not last that long, regardless of what it's built out of.

Now as to American houses, I don't know how long they'll last, but the one I'm living in has been here a lot longer than 30 years and will be here a lot longer, if I can ever get around to patching the roof and fixing the front porch.

Moreover, when a man builds one of these modern new fancy houses, he doesn't want to put too much permanence into it, he never knows when a new super-highway will come along and pass right through the middle of it.

But even so, I believe I'd rather live in a house of my own that's going to last only 30 years, than live in one that's going to last for 200 years, if it was owned by Mr. Khrushchev.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Capital Report

Legislature Takes Brief 'Breather'

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN—Senators and Representatives will have only a brief breather between regular and special sessions of the Legislature. Gov. Price Daniel announced that lawmakers would convene again, the first of next week.

Big question around the Capitol now is how many special sessions will be needed to solve the state's tax problem.

Since the lawmakers failed, during their 120-day regular session, to erase the $65,000,000 deficit and balance the budget for 1960-61, that chore will be number one on their agenda. And most observers think it will take at least two, and maybe more, 30-day special sessions to iron things out.

Only matters specifically offered by the Governor may be considered during a special session of the Legislature, and all legislation started during the regular session must start over, practically from scratch. Revenue-raising proposals will have to be introduced again in the House, heard in committee, etc., before they can go to the Senate.

"Open Shop" Teaching

Any college graduate could teach school in Texas — at least for a year or two — under a House-passed bill.

Bill would grant a teacher's certificate good for one year to any bachelor's degree holder, whether he had had teacher training or not. Certficates could be renewed twice. After that, the applicant would have to take 12 semester hours of teacher education.

Miss Maud Isaacks of El Paso, herself a teacher for many years, sponsored the bill. Professional educators were divided on the merits of the plan.

Some said it would increase qualified personnel; others, that it would attract to Texas the misfits and ne'er-do-wells from "all the freshwater colleges" in the nation.

Ploughed Under

In the final days of a session, there usually isn't time to revive a bill that gets pushed aside. Among the bills whose setbacks were interpreted as death for this year are these:

MILK IMPORT REGULATIONS sponsored by Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo. House supporters couldn't muster the two thirds majority to take the bill out of order. Proponents said the resrtiction on milk brought across the state line was needed for health reasons. Opponents called it a trade barrier that would raise the price of milk.

BROADENING THE COMMON PURCHASER OIL LAW, by Sen. Hazlewood. Senate refused to take up the bill which would require pipelines to provide connections to new fields or transport the oil to market by truck.

BAN ON SUNDAY AUTO SALES, by Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas. It passed Senate, but House refused twice to take it up.

BAN ON NUDIST CAMPS, by Rep. James Turman of Gober. Senate passed, but House refused to call it out of committee. Committee had referred it to the Attorney General who said it would be legal.

Highway Zoning

Both houses moved quickly to ward passage of a bill to protect smaller roads from heavier truck loads.

Governor Daniel asked for such regulation when he signed the bill to increase permitted truck loads from 58,420 to 72,000 pounds.

Proposed bill would allow the State Highway Department to zone state highways and farm roads for lighter truck loads and gives same authority to County Commissioners for county roads.

Insurance Question Marks

Whether the State Board of Insurance should operate fulltime or part time was an issue expected to carry over into the special session.

House made it preferences clear by putting fulltime salaries in the House appropriations bill and by passing a bill specifically providing for a fulltime Board.

Senate version of the appropriation bill provided for what would amount to about one-third time salaries ($5,000 a year) for Insurance Board members. any senators opposed a fulltime Board in addition to a fulltime Commissioner when the Department was reorganized two years ago. Since then, they have been angered because the Board retained William A. Harrison as Commissioner after the Senate had disapproved him.

Since no conference committee was appointed to adjust differnces between the two houses' appropriation bills, it was obvious the insurance hassle could not be resolved in the regular session.

State Releases 1959 Map Of 'Travel Encyclopedia'

AUSTIN—The new 1959 Official Highway Travel Map was available for distribution Monday by the Texas Highway Department.

Copies of the "travel encyclopedia" of Texas, as it has been called, may be obtained by writing the Texas Highway Department, Austin 14, or at the highway district offices and travel information bureaus. County tax offices have map cards available for requesting copies of the map.

The new map is the answer to today's demand for more and more travel information. The steady growth of Texas from a state with a population of slightly over seven million just ten years ago to its present estimated population of more than nine million is reflected by the information appearing on the 1959 map.

Nine more cities and towns are shown than on last year's map, making a total of 1,821. The increased mileage in U.S., state, and farm-to-market roads is much in evidence. The map reflects some 1,600 miles of multilane divided highway now completed in Texas, including the completed sections of the National System of Interstate and Defense highways located in the state.

The map now shows approximately 61 major lakes and reservoirs, and includes countless rivers creeks and streams. Roadside parks, long cherished as rest stops and picnic areas by Texans and tourists alike, now number 1,046 as compared to the 1,026 shown on last year's map.

City route maps are provided of the state's 12 largest cities—Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio, Waco, and Wichita Falls.

Cameron's Business - Industrial Review

Story Of Cameron Business Leadership

On Any Occasion

Say It With Flowers By Glass

After 27 years in the wholesale and retail business, there is little doubt that "when you say it with flowers in Cameron and Rosebud Glass the Florist says it best." In fact two generations of Glass, the Florists, make floral service and selection a pleasure and delight regardless of the occasion.

Co-owners Mr. and Mrs. Lester Glass and son, Donald Glass, present an array of flowers for that special occasion that makes remembrance from Glass, the Florist something really special.

Donald Glass points out that potted plants, sprays, corsages, bouquets, cut flowers and any other floral requirement are available in a spectrum of selections.

Greenhouse Fresh

He emphasizes that flowers by Glass are greenhouse fresh to their customers. Glass, the Florist grows most of their flowers in their own local greenhouses.

Freshly picked, the flowers are beautifully arranged by the skilled floral decorators at Glass, the Florist. And they are delivered in fast efficient manner by one of five trucks working in Cameron and a truck in Rosebud, he points out.

"We consider the floral occasion in recommending types of flowers and their arrangements to our customers. We strive for the personal touch that flowers convey when they are given as a gift or special remembrance."

Glass's floral arrangements for funerals are done with dignity and grace befitting the need, Glass says. And equal care is devoted to flower and scenic arrangements for weddings and parties.

Top Service At Mack's Oil Co. Remodeled Outlet

Mack's Oil Company is open for business again at their highway 77 and 36 service station location after completing improvements which included a cement driveway and modernization of retail gasoline pump and service area.

In addition to the outside work done, A. W. McCullin, owner, recently remodeled the company offices as part of a continuing effort to keep facilities of Mack's Oil Company up to the latest in motorists requirements in an auto service center.

McCullin, also Phillips petroleum distributor in Milam, Burleson and Lee Counties, knows that top-notch service is what customers want. And that is what they get at his Cameron, Rockdale and Caldwell service stations.

The Cameron station features Phillips petroleum products including diesel fuel, motor oils and gasoline. They also sell Lee Tires, the famous Gates belts, Purolator oil filters and Champion sparkplugs, all well known brand items.

"You will find the complete service at Mack's 66 in Cameron" McCullin says. "And the same efficient, courteous Phillips 66 service awaits you at the Rockdale and Caldwell stations."

A versatile man in petroleum products and public service, McCullin also buys and sells crude oil in the Minerva field in Milam County.

County Ag Workers Studying Data On Soil And Water Resources Here

The local county agricultural workers, in cooperation with State and National agricultural leaders, are currently studying and tabulating data regarding the soil and water resources of Milam County. This study is one that will be carried out in every county in the Nation and will be known as "The National Inventory of Soil and Water Conservation Needs".

At the county level, all agricultural agencies are represented on a County Conservation Needs Committee. They are: Wayne Mann, Soil Conservation Service; Roy Wright, Farmers Home Administration; Elva Sanders, Agricultural Stabilization Conservatipn; J. D. Moore, Extension Service; Carl Covert, Game and Fish Commission and Pat Kelley, Vocational Agriculture.

In their first meeting a study was made of the 657,000 acres in the county to determine its present use. The committee agreed that about 15,000 acres are in towns where there are roads, railroads, etc. another 2,000 acres are covered with water; 316,000 acres are in dry cropland; 72,000 acres are in rangeland, either open or covered with brush.

When these studies are complete each county will have data that will show present use of our land and expected use in 1975. This data will then be broken down further to show each soil type, its use, amount treated, and amount needing treatment. This information from each county can then be brought together at the National level to give us our National Inventory of Conservation Needs.

Officials said grassy cattle showed the greatest decline while good quality cows and calves in pairs were scarce in the Thursday market.

The price decline failed to indicate anything other than a seasonal price drop with out indication of an abnormal drop, auction officials said.

Mesquite Control

Range specialists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service say that late spring is the best time to use chemicals for mesquite control. For single stem plants, they recommended 1-3 pond of 2,4,5,-T ½ gallon of diesel oil and enough water to make 3 gallons of spray solution per acre. For multiple stem and sprouts and regrowth spraying, increase the 2,4,5-T to ½ pound.

Hearne, Tex., Man Reports—

Ammonia is an important part of our farm program!

John Nigliazzo, successful operator of 2100 acres in Robertson County, says: "We proceed very carefully with our fertilization programs—the same as we do on other phases of our farming. After testing the results of Phillips 66 Ammonia on various crops, we now consider it to be an important part of our farm program. After taking into consideration previous cropping history and soil texture, we plan to apply 60 pounds of Phillips 66 Ammonia on every acre that we are planting this year."

Other successful Texas farmers have discovered that they make more profit per acre, using Phillips 66 Ammonia. They get more cotton that classes higher at the gin . . . yields of sorghum grain or ensilage are increased . . . profits on small grains are boosted through higher yields and improved forage . . . more marketable vegetables are harvested.

Phillips 66 Ammonia can be easily applied by you or your distributor. See us today about your supply of Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia . . . it gives you more nitrogen per dollar than any other form of fertilizer available—a full 82%.

Chinch Bugs Hit Maize

J. D. Moore, County Agent

Widespread damage to young maize by chinch bugs continues even though we had good rains.

These insects were first reported about a month ago as the overwintered adults migrated from their winter quarters into the maize and corn fields. It was dry at that time and many were of the opinion that a series of good rains would check the spread of the chinch bug since this insect is supposedly affected by the weather.

Dry weather appears to induce migration, and a succession of several dry years favors a large increase in their numbers and consequently of the injury they cause.

Rains during the hatching pesiods of the eggs are very destructive to the insect, and the suppression of a chinch-bug attack, anticipated because of the great abundance of the wintering bugs, by heavy rains at the right time in the spring is one reason why these pests are not even more serious than is the case.

A fungus generally called the chinch bug fungus frequently attacks this insect, particularly during periods of wet, cool, cloudy weather, and kills enormous numbers of them. In dry seasons it seems to have little effect, and attempts to control the chinch bug by placing individuals inoculated with the fungus in infested fields, while successful from the experimental standpoint, have on the whole hardly produced the results hoped for.

IDENTIFICATION

The chinch bug is less than a quarter of an inch long. Its body is black or dark gray, with white and therefore conspicuous wings, each having a single black spot. There are two forms of adults, one with long full sized wings, the other with short wings only partially covering the top of the abdomen.

This insect passes the winter as adult in grass tufts, under residue or other places giving it protection. Local farmers report noticable infestation in field planted to Hubam Clover last year.

In the spring the bugs leave their winter quarters and fly to the grain fields. Here they lay their eggs, several hundred in number, on the ground at the base of the plants or on the roots just below the surface, this process lasting about a month. The average length of the egg stage is about 2 weeks and the young hatch and suck the sap from young plants for about 30 to 40 days before coming adults.

CONTROL

Generally better results have been obtained with sprays than with dusts. Chinch bugs can be controlled by applying the following amounts of insecticides in 3 to 6 gallons of water per acre. 1. DDT (2 lbs per gallon) 2 to 3 quarts per acre. 2. TOXPHENE (6 lbs per gal) 1 1-3 to 2 quarts per acre. 3. TOXPHENE -DDT (2-1 mix) 1 1-3 to 2 quarts per acre. 4. DIELDREN (1.5 lb per gal) 1 ½ pints per acre.

Aphids In Maize

Several farmers reported aphids (plant lice causing honey dew) in their maize. Generally, A&M Entomologists do not recommend poisoning to control this insect. Beneficial insects usually build up in sufficient numbers to control the aphids.

When insecticides are used in maize to control chinch bugs, beneficial insects will likely be killed. In this case farmers should add 1 pint of Parathion, Malathion or sistox to the hinch bug spray in order to control aphids if present.

Crop Climate Tops To Plant, Grow, County Agent Says

The Milam crop report for the past seven days indicates that surface and subsoil moisture was ideal for planting and growing prior to week end rains.

County agent J. D. Moore said that first oats will be cut for hay this week as livestock conditions continue ideal with adequate grazing and good supply of stock water.

He sadi that 85 per cent of the county cotton crop has been planted while corn planting is completed.

Chinch bug damage to maize is wide spread as reports of poor maize have been received.

Commercial truck crops acreage are at an all time low for Milam County. He noted small acreage of tomatoes setting fruit and that watermelons and canteloupes are 20 days late.

A&M Expert Says: 'Watch Crop Cost, Grow More Cotton'

COLLEGE STATION — "Cotton Producers have made their final decision on their 1959 allotment, either plan A or B," C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist said, "and unless disaster occurs, growers know the exact acreage they are permitted to harvest."

He said proper fertilization, good stands, control of weeds, and effective insect control are some important considerations in getting the highest production at lowest cost from the cotton grown.

Plans should be made to use every practice that will help to reduce unit production costs, as lower cost per bale of cotton marketed will mean greater profit for Choice A and B producers alike.

In some areas the importance of certain practices rank higher than with their county agricultural agent for local practice recommendations, Bates suggested.

Poll Seeks Your Ideas On Youth State Problems

Nearly all Texans have ideas about the problems of children and youth today, but seldom do they get the chance to tell it to their President and Governor. Now they can by simply filling out the Public Opinion Poll on this page and mailing it to Governor Price Daniel in Austin.

Actually, President Eisenhower and Governor Daniel want each citizen's ideas about the state and nation's future citizens. President Eisenhower has called a White House Conference on Children and Youth, as each president has done every ten years since Teddy Roosevelt. This week Governor Daniel issued a call for all Texans to look at barriers to the future development of the State's most precious resource—its children.

Governor Daniel has asked officials in every county to organize a large local committee to study all welfare, education, health, and spiritual resources available in each community to the juvenile delinquent, the hungry child, the student in each independent school district, the ill and handicapped, those in day care while their mothers work and children who need protection.

Governor Daniel has asked that every Texan use time and thoughtful interest in expressing his ideas through the poll on this page, and mail it directly to him. The results will be tabulated and will represent Texas' demand for attention at the White House Conference.
